LEONARD WILL BE A

POPULAR CHAMPION. Welsh Admitted a Great Boxer from One Point of View.

Benny Leonard, the new lightweight champion, will be as popular a title-holder in his class as was Jack Mc-Auliffe. He is a combination of all his immediate American predecessors. He has much of the science of Gans, the courage of Nelson and the dash of Welgast. His popularity looms large Weigast. His popularity looms large at the start because of the unpopularity of his predecessor, Fredde Weish Usually when a champion past's there is a lot of sympathy for his control of the start of a more or less maudin character. But there seems to be little or no sympathy for the man that Leonard defeated. Weish showed a lack of sportsmanship and a contempt for his public while he held the title. While he has made the championship pay and can retire "weil fixed." the finish of his pugilistic career must be emblittered to a great extent by the embittered to a great extent by the knowledge that he was the most un-popular of all puglistic champions. No man is so thoroughly commercial that he is without vanity, and Welsh, being human, must have sufficient vanity to feel the sting of his unpopular-

In justice to Welsh it must be ad-mitted that he was a great boxer from one point of view. Boxing, as we know it, is called the art of self defense. Wesh was perhaps as great a de-fensive boxer as the Queensberry ring has ever known. Until Leonard finally beat him down. Welsh could toy with nearly any man in the ring within five nounds of his weight. He lost de-cision after decision, but he could not be knocked out. He knew all of the rules and the theories of the no-de-cision game. Sometimes he came close cision game. Sometimes he came close to overstepping the rules, but he al-ways managed to get through a tenround or a six-round fight and retain his title. He took no chances. He played the art of self defense to the letter.

Tex Covington, who used to pas time with the Browns, is walloping his way to fame with a 400 batting mark in the Southern league.

and White has faced yet and has an entirely veteran team and will put up a gamey fight.

The best part of the Academy team is the battery. In Chick Stanley, Coach McKay has one of if not the best high school pitchers in this part of the state. Stanley's pitching and that alone has won several hard games for the team. Besides his twirling ability Stanley is a strong hitter, leading the league with 500 last year. At present he is batting well over 350. Counthan, the catcher, although a good catcher as far as high school catchers go, is not of the same callbre as Stanley. Ray is also a good hitter, batting over 300, and holds the cleamup position in the batting order.

LeClaire, who plays short, is, next to Stanley, the best player on the team. He is a fine fielder and is clouting the ball for about 350. Parker, at third, is a good player except for his tendency to "stand on a nickel" while playing. He is, however, overcoming this under the tutining of Coach Mc.

Cincinnati 6, Giants 5.

Cincinnati, O., June 5.—Cincinnati took the first game of the series from New York here today, 6 to 5. The visitors made a run in the first and third innings without getting a hat. The local team was one run behind when they came to bat in the ninth inning. Shean singled, Mitchell doubled when Kauff fell down, allowing the ball to go over his head. Shean being held at third. Gron then filed to Burns, who misjudged the ball, and when Burns turned to get it he fell and it went for a double, both Shean Cincinnati 6, Giants 5.

week through heavy swatting. Springweek through heavy swatting. Spring-field holds the cellar position and does not fare much better in fielding, being seventh, and Portland last. New Lon-don heads that column with an aver-age of .971. Hartford occupies the same position in fielding as in batting and has an average of .947. Harry Weaver, a member of New Haven's pitching corps, and Rettig, the Springfield hurler, stand out as the

SPORTING NOTES

Pitcher George Foster, who has re-joined the Red Sox, after a year's lay-off, says he is ready to take his turn on the slab for the champions.

Biss Jacobson, the Southern league's mighty slugger, is having his annual trial as a big league pastimer with the Brows. For some reason or other Bill has always lost his batting eye after working awhile in the north.

Bunny Brief, formerly of the Yan kees, is once again performing in the big tent as a member of the Pirates. After leaving the New Yorkers Brief worked in the Facific Coast League, where his brilliant playing attracted the attention of the Pittsburgh man-

While Charley Deal's batting for the Cubs hasn't been up to his Kan-sas City mark of last year, the former Bostonian looks to be a handy pas-timer for Mitch to stick into the fray

Thresher is another pastimer whose minor league batting mark shrinks whenever he gets a chance with the majors. This Southern Leaguer, who is a whale with the stick in his home outpointing the local man in every is a whale with the stick in his home round except the sixth. Weinert country, as had several trials with weighed 188 1-4 pounds and Reich 205 the Mackmen, but his bat has failed to dent American League pitching.
